

Abstract

The present invention relates to new amino acid derivatives, process for the production, their use, in particular in transplantation, and pharmaceutical compositions containing them.